Grand Chapter of Eastern Star.

The classes from the city of visitors to the fair in this week almost equally offset by the progress of delegates and visitors attending the grand lodge sessions of the Masonic bodies and the grand chapter of the Eastern star. Of the latter branch nearly the entire quota of delegates from thirty-three chapters in the state are present at the first state assembly. Masons are accompanied by wives, sisters, mothers and daughters, and an impressive throng is given to local society in individual entertainment of the guests as well as the elaborate entertainments and formal lodge sessions of the temple. Tomorrow morning the grand chapter of the Eastern star will be officially opened by the most worthy grand matron of the world's chapter, Mrs. Alice Miller of Muskogee, Oklahoma. After the welcome speech by Mrs. Hesterella Bailey the annual address will be the feature of the morning session, and after a recess the luncheon, routine business will occupy the afternoon. Friday the grand chapter deliberations will continue, and Friday evening a reception will be tendered by Adah chapter in some of the grand lodge officers. During the lodge session, the beautiful floral drill and initiatory rites will be exhibited. The evening's entertainment was enriched by a musical program and masterly addresses by Masonic officers. Among the musical selections a tender solo "Mandolin," sung in exquisite voice by Mr. Gould, accompanied by Mr. Stanley Seider was a gem of the program. A piano solo, "Value in E" (Mozart) by Mr. Seider, captivated all listeners. Beautiful renditions by a mandolin trio composed of Messrs. C. A. Wright, Carl Davidson and Charles Chadwick, harmonized by Mr. Frank, were greatly appreciated as was also a lute solo sung by the cultured Miss T. Y. Maynard. The influence of Masonry in the community was a masterpiece of thought expressed in formal rhetorical beauty that brought out the best in the author, Mr. J. A. Miller and his hearers. Ex-Governor E. R. Steiner, who was chapter member on the last lodge thirty-one years ago, welcomed the visiting Masons in that spirit of welcome and brotherly love which is the hallmark of the order in Old Albuquerque. The most respectable feature of the affair was the ladies were excluded. The session of the grand lodge will continue till Friday evening, the social affairs being the Thursday evening of the Grand Royal Arch chapter, and the grand convocation of the Knights Templars, who brought together not only local but state-wide talent in the successful art exposition. And to the subcommittee who faithfully labored for its success is due unstinted praise. These ladies are: Mesdames, Belling, Walker, Burns, Danahy, Miss Haring, and all have every reason to feel gratified at the splendid results of their efforts.

Curry County Triumph.

Miss Pearl Menhard, the successful artist and mistress of the art exhibition, returned to her home in Curry county, accompanied by her sister, Miss Lillian Menhard, who is also an artist. They were accompanied by Mr. Stanley Seider, who is also an artist. They were accompanied by Mr. Stanley Seider, who is also an artist. emplified by the Adah chapter in the initiation of two members. The reception and social diversion will be followed by a banquet at which guests and after dinner discourse will crown the pleasure of the evening and grand chapter session. Past worthy patron Wilson will preside as toastmaster.

Masonic Grand Lodge Meets.
With all the pomp and dignity for which the ancient order of Masons is noted, the grand lodge sessions this week are marking an epoch in Masonic history as well as social and political. Following the memorable ceremony of the first state fair, being the first grand assembly in the new state, and being featured by the formal dedication of the most magnificent Masonic temple in the southwest, the Masons and allied chapters of the Eastern star may well feel pride and gratification in the opening of the week. The third grand assembly was formally opened in the temple Monday morning by Most Worthy Grand Master Edward L. Medler, who also presided at the impressive dedicatory services.

County Art Exhibit.
A revelation of art ability in the state, were the superb examples of handicraft displayed last week in the women's building at the first state fair. The splendid collection of needlework, crocheted work, painting, embroidery, lace and smolders in the Curry county exhibit was most deserving the handsome loving cup awarded for the best county exhibit. Prominent among the beautiful attractions of the building was the Valencian county booth containing the art specimens in charge of Mrs. Solomon Lane. The Bollenburg lace spreads, knitted counterpanes, entire coverings, the crocheted work, the hand-moved brass, and the exposition of paragraph art were all masterpieces and the ensemble effect most beautiful. The collection from Torrance county, sent by the superintendent, Mr. James Walker in charge of Mrs. Peterson, demonstrated the talent and public-spiritedness of the ladies of the Estancia valley. The fine needlework and crocheted work for this county, the rich, embroidered, hand-bordered lunch cloth, donated by the Richardson silk company of Chicago.

A collection of Irish brocade made by Mrs. W. J. Allen of Dunlap, Chaves county, inspired many expressions of admiration.

To Mrs. Lizette Perkins of this city, the art department and general public are indebted for the display of a unique quilt into whose intricate patterns is interwoven historic records of the country. The quilt is the handiwork of the exhibitor's aunt who at the time resided in Birmingham, Michigan. Gracing the huge central space are the figures of the year in which it was made, "1883" and the names of the fourteen presidents who held up to that time occupied the white house. Designed or stars in painstaking handwork and quilted by hand, the masterpiece of quilting work is a monument to the industry and art of the past generation of needle artists.

A disappointment to the ladies of Torrance county and to the sightseers at the fair as well as the committee in charge of the art department, was the non-arrival of the exhibit from Torrance county. Mrs. Lou Well, the county superintendent, had collected a notable display of needlework and art specimens to send, and at the last moment could not do so on account of the unsatisfactory transportation arrangements. However, the Torrance county exhibit will be in place in the art display next year at the second state fair unless unforeseen circumstances prevent. On every side is heard highest commendation of the superintendent-in-chief, Mrs. George
